ORIGINAL REPORT

On the 30th of August in Zagreb, in Zagreb he called UNHCR : he gave them informations about him, such as his nationality, the day he arrived in Croatia, gave them his geolocalisation and they told him that a police car will pick up up, bring him to go to the police station to start the asylum papers. At the police station he explained his situation: that he was arriving here after a trip of 9 days in the jungle, and wanted to ask for asylum in an open camp. The police explained him that he had to spent first 5 days in a close camp before going to the open one. « But police station no papers, no asylum, they deported me to Serbia. »

Thinking he was going to a closed croatian camp Abdul left from the police station in a big car with others refugees inside : him, another Afghan, and a family with children from Iraq. And after 4 hours driving they arrived at the Serbian border. The police asked them to go out of the car and told them « Here no asylum, you have to go »
