ORIGINAL REPORT

"We were in a third village from the border near the train station. One local woman helped us giving us food. We were thinking to go to a train, but the 2 police men came in a police car and stopped us. After 10 minutes one policeman came in a police van. We asked for asylum but they rejected our request saying that there are no places left, that the camp is full. In a police car we were taken to the border. They pushed us back to Serbia in a site around 8 km away from Sid. On a Serbian side we were walking in a direction of Sid. How we were walking in a line of a border Croatian police on the other side of a border was telling us to go away."
