ORIGINAL REPORT

[Name] from Libya, 24 years old.

On the 17th of October he was at the UNHCR office in Zagreb. There he talked to a woman, and told her his name and that he wants to register for asylum. She called the police. He was with another friend. The police arrived and took them to the police station where they had to stay all the afternoon. His name was taken at the police station but he didn't get any document. During the night they were deported in a van with 2 police officers. They were together with other refugees from Afghanistan and Pakistan in the same vehicle. They were dropped at Tovarnik train station. The police ordered them to « go to Serbia ».

He declares that he was already used to police confiscating his phone and money: it happened to him 12 days before this last push-back, where he has been brought back from Slovenia to Serbia, and 6 police officers have beaten him with a truncheon to his legs and arms.
