ORIGINAL REPORT

On the 2nd of August, around 12pm, 15 men mainly young, all from Afghanistan were pushed back from Croatia. They were caught approximately 40km behind the Croatian border, on a small road in the forest. They were 7 men, not wearing official uniforms but black jeans and shirts: athletically trained and very drunk. The 15 men were too afraid to ask for asylum. They were victims of physical violence (hands, feet and batons used) and verbal one.

The seven men, before they let the people out of the car one by one in order to beat them, passed around some bottle with liquor and played radio music aloud. People said it seemed like a drinking game.
